Pooja Dangol is a Corporate Trainer, Consultant, Keynote Speaker, and Lead Facilitator with 8+ years of experience in designing and delivering practical, engaging, and impact-driven learning programs. She brings strong expertise in leadership development, communication, team effectiveness, training needs assessment, curriculum design, performance improvement, and soft skills training.

She has delivered leadership, communication, and professional development programs for diverse sectors, including engineering, hydropower, service, hospitality, development organizations, government bodies, educational institutions, and corporate teams. Her experience includes similar training interventions for SG Design Nepal and other hydropower and engineering-sector companies, enabling her to understand the learning needs of technical professionals, project coordinators, engineers, supervisors, and mid-level managers.

Her facilitation style is practical, interactive, and workplace-focused. She uses real-life scenarios, role plays, group discussions, reflection exercises, and action planning to help participants strengthen leadership behaviors such as clear communication, accountability, stakeholder handling, conflict management, team coordination, presentation skills, and ownership of project outcomes.
